Work From Home

Contents
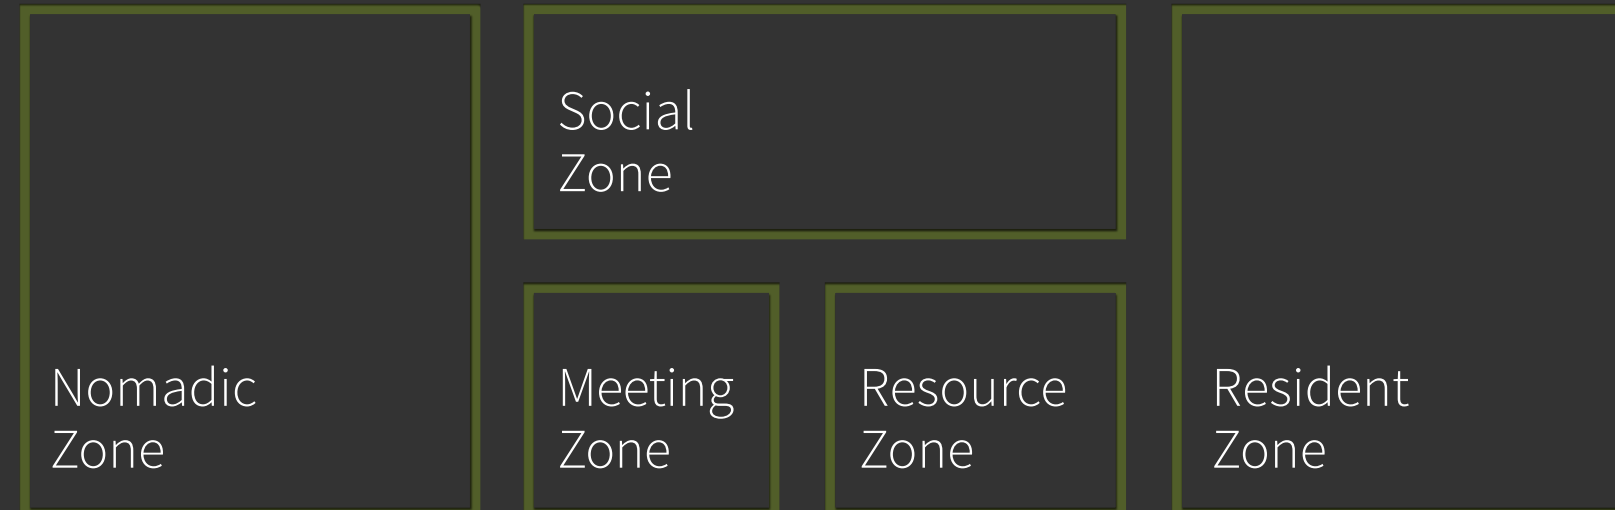

01 / Insights

The new ecosystem of spaces.

The new ecosystem of spaces will include the home office. Even more so than now, the office will turn into a destination to foster community, identity and collaboration. Focused work will partially move to and most likely stay at the home office.

Home Office

Why should corporates invest in working from home ?

WFH will stay, because…

| COVID-19 has shown us that WFH is feasible and enhances business continuity planning

| Efficiency and productivity increases are measurable

| Employees expect flexibility

| It is part of the new safety standards

| Corporate agility can be increased

Let's make it add value…

| Hiring and retaining top talent

| Not limited by geography

| Decentralization of locations

| Save on travel costs, commute time

| Limit absences

| Better use of technologies

But be aware of challenges…

| Reduced collaboration and creativity

| Reduced sense of belonging and contribution

| Performance management and trust

| Learning and Development

| Negative impacts on employees' wellbeing (stress, work/life balance, loneliness, lack of supervision)

| Employee's individual environment parameters (distractions, family situation, connectivity and hardware, space available)

Most people are uncomfortable at home.

30%
Comfortable workspaces.

Only 30% reported they would describe their workspace as comfortable. People with an ergonomic chair were more likely to report they have a comfortable workspace, yet only 24% of individual contributors reported having one.
46%
Working at a desk.

40% of individuals work primarily or almost always at a desk. People who live in smaller homes are less likely to work at a desk.
